FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Website reunites four sisters after 33 years apart

The search is over for four sisters who were separated by adoption, and reunited after 33 years apart. Adopted out at a young age, Diane King of Melbourne now 36 years old, listed her details on the Australian website Oz Reunion, looking for her sisters and birth mother. After many years of searching, her 43 year old sister Denise Higginson, who lives in Scotland, discovered her adopted sister's entry on the Oz Reunion website at www.reunion.com.au.

Although still separated by distance "we chat everyday for an hour at lunchtime, and on the weekends for at least 5 hours each day" said Denise, who lives with her 40 year old sister Donna, in Scotland. Diane King was adopted out with her 34 year old sister Debbie, who lives in Queensland.

"Yes, all the sister's names start with "D", and are thrilled to be in contact after so long" said Mike Doroshenko, creator and founder of Oz Reunion. "We've just reached our 100,000 visitor to our website, and what better way to celebrate than with another successful reunion", said Mike.

Established in 2000, Oz Reunion has had many successful reunions, and caters for a worldwide Internet audience who are searching for a lost friend or family member in Australia. Their database has thousands of entries, including school reunions, lost contacts, missing persons, lost loves, heirs and descendants, amongst others.

Thanks to Oz Reunion, Diane King has also been able to find her birthmother, who happens to live in Western Australia. "After no response for five years and not having any other way of tracking down my mothers side of my family I had given up hope" said Diane. Her birth mother plans to return to Scotland soon.

The Internet has made it easier for people to re-connect with each other. For more information, visit www.reunion.com.au.
